TO : Director of Training

DATE: 11 May 1965

FROM : Chief, Intelligence School

SUBJECT: Biweekly Activities Report No. 10
27 April - 10 May 1965

1. On 26 April Chief IS attended the ceremony honoring General Carter and introducing Admiral Raborn and Mr. Helms.

2. On 3 May Chief IS gave the opening lecture of the Attaches' Course at the Defense Intelligence School. The audience consisted of about 75 military attaches and the wives of about half of them. The wives, incidentally, are cleared for Secret material. The subject of the lecture was "The Nature and Significance of Strategic Intelligence."

25X1A 3. On 5 May Chief IS was a member of the group that met at [REDACTED] to discuss revision of the CTP. As a result of the meeting, the Intelligence School is going ahead with plans for the two-week Introduction to Intelligence for the July class of CT's. Coverage of the Clandestine Services in the course is being coordinated with the Operations School.

25X1A 4. On the morning of 6 May Chief IS briefed the Intelligence Review class on "Trends and Developments in Agency Training." Much of the material for the briefing was supplied by Messrs. [REDACTED].

25X1A 5. On the afternoon of 6 May Chief IS audited the current intelligence briefings given by the students of the Intelligence Production Course. A part of each briefing was put on sound film, and on 12 May the film will be used as a critique device. Again, excellent support was given by the Instructional Services Branch.

25X1A 6. On 6 May [REDACTED] requested that Chief IS and [REDACTED] be available for participation in the Interdepartmental Seminar programs from 24 May through 27 May. Both Chief IS and [REDACTED] will participate to the extent that prior commitments permit.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Intelligence School

SUBJECT: Biweekly Activities Reports #9 and #10
12 April - 23 April 1965
26 April - 7 May 1965

BRIEFINGS OF CIA PERSONNEL

1. CIA Introduction: On 12 April, I gave this briefing for 14 new employees; on 19 April, for 21 new employees; and on 3 May, for 39 new employees.

2. Orientation for Overseas: On 4 and 5 May, [REDACTED] conducted his fourth overseas orientation program. Unfortunately, we had a good deal of trouble finding space for the 64 people who participated. The group was obviously too large for our new conference room, 1D1601. We tried to get either of the two class rooms on the first floor without success and finally were able to obtain one of the OCR film showing rooms for the Tuesday morning briefings for dependents and their husbands. Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning were spent in the Auditorium. [REDACTED] felt that rapport was a little bit more difficult to maintain in a room that large with this size group. On Wednesday, he had to cut the program short before 12 noon because the noontime movie program had a film showing starting at 12 o'clock. The ladies' session on Wednesday afternoon was held in 1D1601. All of this meant a good deal of running around and a great deal of time spent in just trying to get space. It is our sincere hope that this kind of difficulty can be alleviated in some way for our future sessions. All things considered, the program was a success.

3. CIA Introduction for Commo: On 5 May, I briefed 26 new Commo employees, a young, eager group who asked numerous questions all through the briefing. In this group, I already received some of the results of viewing the NBC program, "The Science of Spying", and many questions were asked about the subject matter covered in that program.

BRIEFINGS OF PRIVATE GROUPS

1. On 13 April, I briefed [REDACTED] the head of the [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] an Agency-sponsored organization, [REDACTED]

██████████ was there not only to hear a briefing on the Agency but to determine whether the witting people in the ██████████ should get such a briefing at their headquarters ██████████. He asked many questions and, having been a regularly attending officer on the Eisenhower National Security Council, was able to furnish me with a number of facts which I had not known before.

3. On 30 April, I briefed a group of high school seniors from the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia. There were about 30 people in the group. I think we could have recruited half of them on the spot, after I finished. The questions which they asked were quite sophisticated for a group so young. As long as young people like this exist, we need not fear for our COT program in the future.

BRIEFING OF U.S. GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL

1. On 5 May, I briefed Ambassador Charles W. Adair, Jr., who is going to Panama. ██████████

BRIEFINGS OF U.S. GOVERNMENT GROUPS

1. AID: On 16 April, I briefed a group of 26 people attending the Overseas Orientation course and received the usual interested response.

W 2. Army: On 7 May, I spoke to a group of 48 cadets, members of the West Point Debate Council and Forum, in the Auditorium. This was a very attentive audience and they asked a great many very good questions at the end of the session. Among the comments that I received after the briefing and lunch at the North Cafeteria were numerous compliments on our taste in secretaries, great interest in our colored doors, and how could a military man get into CIA.
